STATE NORMAL COLLEGE

BOWLING GREEN, OHIO, NOVEMBER, 1925

Vol. VII.

No. II.

MISS VERA A. REYNOLDS

We record with much regret the death of Miss Vera Alice Reynolds, a member of our Faculty.

Miss Reynolds came to the Bowling Green State College in the fall of Nineteen Hundred Twenty-four. Her preparation—B. S. from the University of Michigan and A. M. from the University of Chicago—made her a valuable addition to the English Department. Thorough scholarship, tireless labor, and loyalty to high standards of achievements for her classes, together with her friendly, helpful attitude toward each and every student, made her a strong force in the College.

After teaching during the Second Term of this last summer session, Miss Reynolds went to California to spend her vacation with her mother. The holiday itself was a success; but somehow on the way back to Bowling Green, she contracted typhoid fever. The disease declared itself shortly after college opened; and—in spite of all that skill and devotion could accomplish—she died on the morning of Friday, October the thirtieth.

Simple funeral services were held on Saturday at the home where she had lived in this city, and on Sunday there were services in Jonesville, Michigan, where she was buried.

Miss Reynolds leaves behind a happy memory—the memory of a strong teacher, a cultured woman, of a sincere friend, and of a truly upright and noble character.

Chapel Notes

October 20

After the usual opening exercises, announcements were made concerning the various important events which were coming. The exercises were closed by a helpful talk by Pres. Williams.

October 27

Rev. Mink, minister of the Church of Christ, addressed the student-body. The theme of the address was the "Relationship of Education and Good Conduct."

November 3

The hour was devoted to memorial services for Miss Reynolds. Many beautiful tributes were paid to her memory by the speakers. Helen Brown, a student, spoke of Miss Reynolds in her relationship to her students. Miss Hayward gave a very touching and impressive talk of incidents in the life of Miss Reynolds. Pres. Williams gave some very fitting remarks. The services were closed by a prayer by Rev. Voorhis.

Evalyn Byal, who is teaching at Liberty, spent the week-end with her old roommate, Mary Lawrence. After the Country Life Party a slumber party and feed were enjoyed in her honor. Those enjoying the sleepless night were: Eleanor Stutz, Helen Thompson, Mary Kerst, Georgianna Shively, Edna Kalt, Elvera Cook, Mary Lawrence and the guest of honor, Evalyn Byal.

Students have been surprised to hear of the marriage of Mildred Lindsey and Charles Porter. Probably everyone knows of the marriage of Hosky and Isabel, Pug and Helen.

Ruth Greening (at the table): "Does any one want more water? Speak now or forever hold your—glass."

Helen Reider, who is teaching in Toledo, spent Saturday, October 4th here, visiting her many friends.

Lang Syne

A beautiful Christmas play by Miss McCain was artistically presented to a large Home-Coming audience Friday, November 6th, in the college auditorium.

The story is set in New England and portrays the Puritan characteristics in their true setting. There is sufficient contrast of old and New England view point and a beautiful love story interwoven so the audience enjoys every minute of the play.

Home-Coming Party

The last but far from least of the Home-Coming activities was the reception and dance which the faculty and students gave for the pleasure of the returning alumni. Due to the fact that a great crowd was expected (and all expectations were lived up to) the affair was progressive in nature. Both the main gym and the training school gym were given over for dancing while several rooms on the first floor of the Administration building were used for the playing of games by those who did not care for dancing. These rooms were in charge of Miss Shaw, Miss Clements and Mr. Landis. The faculty acted as hosts and hostesses at this affair, a different group standing in the receiving line each hour, so that the returning students had a chance to greet all members.

The gyms were attractively decorated. The main gym under the direction of Miss Neilsewand. The home-coming party committee took on a festive appearance through the use of autumn leaves and red toppers, while the training school under the auspices of the Williams Hall girls was for the evening, a bower of black and white. Punch was served throughout the evening.

Funds For Near East Relief

The residents of the East corridor of Shatzel Hall contributed ten cents a piece towards the Near East Relief. Some of the girls gave their money that they had saved for a sandwich, towards this great cause. Here's hoping the Near East will soon be relieved.

Halloween Party

Among ghosts, goblins and jack-o-lanterns a gay group of masked merry makers invaded the gym, Saturday night, October 31 for the Annual Halloween frolic of the college students and faculty. Many and varied were the costumes. Some were clever entrancing models, while others were grotesquely funny, but all were unique. In keeping with the season daughnuts and cider were served to the not reluctant participants of the frolic. Many stunts and dancing were enjoyed during the evening.

Armistice--Seven Years Ago

On the morning of November 11, as we approached the campus, we lifted our heads a little higher, threw back our shoulders, and stepped more briskly. Our beings were thrilled and as we looked upon "Old Glory" floating in the breeze we were reminded that ideals were not all dead.

Seven years had passed since the Armistice was signed, and again we paused for a day to pay respect to those who had laid down their lives for an ideal. Some of us will never forget that day when we were told that "war" was over, when we realized sacrifice was not in vain, when nature broke the bonds of restraint and giving vent to our pent up emotions we were a people overcome with joy. The days come and go. Soldiers who were boys have become men. They looked back upon those days when all the fiends of Hell were loosed upon earth. Many an eye was dimmed with tears caused by the remembrance of a "buddy" who sleeps in France. These memories instill us with a deep and reverent resolution. We are more firmly resolved, "That these dead shall not have died in vain," and that liberty shall not perish from the earth.

Thanksgiving

The season of the year is rapidly approaching when we shall rest from our labors for a brief period to give thanks for the many advantages we have enjoyed in the past year.

The story of the founding of this national holiday is well known to all of us. After a year in a foreign land far from friends and civilization our ancestors turned to Almighty God with a prayer of thanksgiving upon their lips for the harvest and success He had given to them. They were living upon the rim between civilization and savagery. They were in contact with nature. They had fought and conquered! And now with the spoils of hard labor carefully placed in the bins for the coming winter their hearts fill with gratitude for the health and happiness that has come to them in the midst of the vigors of a new world.

Are we observing the day in the spirit in which it originally was set aside? It seems that America has forgotten the spirit that actuated the founders of our country in setting up national holidays. The preservers of our country in 1861-1865 after the smoke of the battles had cleared away and passions became cooled set aside May 30 as a day of remembrance or memorial for those who had given their lives for their country. We of the Twentieth century have commercialized this day until we have almost lost the spirit that first animated it. We have like-wise mal-treated our National birthday. Thanksgiving day has not escaped the trend of the times. To many it will mean a hunting trip, to others it will mean a sport of some sort, to all of us it will mean a feasting. Ought it to mean these things?

We have many things for which we might turn to the Divine Ruler of the universe and give thanks. Many of us will return to homes where father and mother await to welcome us.

The greatest gift that we can have is a home and parents to which we may return. Will they enjoy our company or will we rush out to spend the day with others and forget those at home from whom we have been separated? We may also give thanks for the prosperity and peace that envelops our country at this time.

We have religious tolerance for which to be thankful. All of us are enjoying, as students at a state institution, great privileges. We are enjoying an opportunity to gain an education, with the major portion of the expense borne by the state, without being barred because of our social status. This is not true in many countries. Schools were not always for the mass. And in some countries today the mass must acquire one type of education, while the few acquire another. We are the favored children of the world, born in a country that has untold resources, free from superstition and ignorance, pestilence and famine, with all the comforts that science can devise for us.

We ought to come to this Thanksgiving time with a feeling of reverence and with hearts filled with thankfulness that we might approach it in the spirit in which our forefathers founded it.

Emerson Literary Society

The first regular meeting of the Emerson Literary Society was held Wednesday, November 4. During the business session the constitution was read by Margaret Bulger. After much discussion it was handed over to a committee to consider for revision. A round table discussion was led by Theodora Fowler. The topic was "Making Emerson Literary Society a Success." Lillian Benson, Eleanor Stutz and Marie Dock were the main speakers of the evening.

Wednesday, November 18 will be Edgar A. Guest night. Ellura Cook will be the leader. This will be a very interesting meeting as there will be some there who will have heard Mr. Guest speak in Toledo November 12.

Foot Ball

Ypsilanti 14--B. G. 0

With the conditions nearly reversed from its first game B. G. met Ypsi, which may say with pride, "Veni Vide Vice." Before a rather small but spirited crowd, the band, on a field in fair condition and before a wonderful team the Orange and Brown was defeated. It may be truly said of the Michigan teachers that they looked a team as well as being one, for they were probably as well balanced an eleven as ever appeared before the home fans. Outweighing the home team didn't seem to help them any till the second half, for during the first session they had plenty to do to keep track of B. G. runners and on one occasion were backed up on their five yard line where only a misplay saved the day for them. In the second half it was only a wonder more did not occur for with the regular quarter back and one-half out of the game, Gill substituting quarter, hurting his hip near the beginning of the game, the team was without a drilled leader. However George Crawford did a fine job of piloting the team during the rest of the game.

During the second half Ypsi by straight football carried the ball down the field into striking distance on two different occasions and then heaved a pass to the right end for touchdowns. In an equally business like manner they kicked both goals.

Under the conditions the defeat is nothing to be ashamed of, the season is young and all conference games still remain and they are what count, so team lets keep up the spirit and wins are sure to come.

Bowling Green 0--Capitol U. 0

One game, two games and then the third one and yet B. G. has not crossed the goal line, threatening however on several occasions when only one man remained to create disaster but this he was always able to do.

Fighting, slippery and covered with mud both teams were slowed down considerably in action but not in spirit.

The crowd, doing its best to keep dry under the drizzling sky, cheered, begged and suffered along with the boys in uniform, for from beginning to end. Slips, fumbles and breaks were frequent.

Passing was inaccurate but in spite of all the unfavorable conditions one half of the twenty passes attempted were completed for an average of seven yards.

Because of the scoreless tie and conditions under which it was played one might think it a dull game, but in fact it was one full of spirited action and good playing on the part of both teams. Strong playing by the Orange line, punting by Evans, returning of punts by Gill and the general playing of George Crawford, Berry and Bohyer were all examples of real football.

On the part of Capitol, they never really threatened till the last period, when by launching a strong rush attack, the ball was carried to within three yards of the line where they were held and Evans punted out of danger as the whistle blew. On another occasion by intercepting a B. G. pass, a Capitol man ran to the goal but was called back for stepping out of bounds.

Each team attempted a field goal, B. G.'s going wide and Capitol's being both blocked and recovered by "Zibe."

B. G. 0--Findlay 0

Once upon a time somebody spoke of an ideal day for football, both in weather and condition of field and in like manner named conditions under which a game could not proceed. To this ancient soothsayer it may well be said, "He never heard of Bowling Green."

"Over the mud they shall not pass" seemed to be the war cry of each team. The old time "Black Swamp" from which this fair country was claimed had nothing on the young lakes, mud flats, and rare stretches of sod that existed on the so called gridiron at Findlay.

While the team journeyed to Findlay, rain fell constantly and right up to the start of the game, when reluctantly it ceased till the game was over, and then again started its monotonous drizzle.

For the game itself use your imagination. The fellows kept their suits nice and clean till after the first play. While their shoes were still dry the backfield made some nice gains, Gill starting things with a 17-yard run. From then on it was only a matter of which backfield could skid the furthest. Punting was resorted to by both team without reserve. Time was called often to wipe the ball and shine the kicker's shoes. Yes it was a football game for a'that and a'that.

Total gain by all methods of play:

Bowling Green ..... 171 yards
Findlay ..... 98 yards

B. G. 2--Defiance 0

Winning from Defiance gives the Orange team a good chance at claiming a share of pennant honors. Although the game was won, there was no cause for any elation due to brilliant playing. Playing in a state of lethargy except during pinches did not help win the game by scoring points, but did prevent Defiance from scoring.

All the blame or glory as it may be, cannot be placed on the players for their old friend Mud was again on hand. Mud of the heavy, yellow, sticky type that covered players, the ball, and clogged shoes, all made going very hard.

Bowling Green's two points came to them when the Defiance kicker fumbled the ball while trying to kick out from behind his goal. By falling on it he prevented a touch down, while B. G. received their two points and the game.

So far B. G. has played five games and the records shows 1 win, 3 scoreless ties and one defeat with the total aggregation of points being opponets 14, B. G. 2.

B. G. 6--Bluffton 0

Breaking one of its records, but adhering steadfastly to two others B. G. played and won its home-coming game from Bluffton, November 7.

Breaking their no touchdown record by scoring in the second quarter won the game. The record of not being scored on through the line was kept and certainly the record of not yet having played on a dry field was at no time during the game in danger of being broken.

Conditions for the game could hardly have been worse and were equally as bad as those of the Findlay game. The field was a beautiful artificial lake with here and there a spot of grass showing through. A leaden sky kept dropping its contents during the game upon both players and spectators. That is those spectators who braved the elements. Most of them could be seen peering from the rear windows of the Administration and Science buildings.

Playing was indeed difficult under the conditions. Frequent fumbles, slips, sinkings, duckings, etc., featured the game. As to what actually took place, use your imagination for such a game can not be done justice to by ordinary prose. A pass, Gill to Berry with a nice run by the latter gave B. G. their score and the game.

Winning this game throws the Orange into a tie with Findlay for the championship of the Little Ohio Conference. Both have beaten Defiance and Bluffton and played a scoreless tie themselves. A game may be arranged to play off the tie.

PAUL E. LANDIS

Bowling Green college is fortunate to have a man like Paul E. Landis as an assistant coach to Warren Steller. Landis is an aggressive man who is thoroughly grounded in the fundamentals of all of the sports and also has a splendid knowledge of gym work.

Landis graduated from Lincoln High School, in Cleveland, after a brilliant athletic career in that institution. He was a three letter man in football, basketball and baseball, being captain of the basketball team for two years. He donned a track uniform two years and made good both seasons also.

Mr. Landis entered Oberlin the fall of 1919 and was elected captain of Freshman football squad. The following three years he was a member of the varsity squad but injuries always interfered with his varsity letter ambitions. However he more than made up for this by starring on the varsity basketball and baseball team upon each of which he played regularly for 3 years.

Coach Landis also played varsity tennis while at Oberlin, and has participated in many municipal tournaments in and around Cleveland. His tennis knowledge and experience should prove valuable in helping B. G. to continue the remarkable tennis record which she started last year.

He graduated in 1923 in the Physical Education department.

For the following two years he coached and taught in the Woodrow Wilson High School in Portsmouth, Virginia. His grid teams won the State championship twice in that time. One year the basketball aggregation took the state championship while they were the runners up on another occasion.

Landis has already proven his worth to the Bowling Green people. He has gained a great number of friends and the best of all, the boys all like his fire.

A. B. C. Club

Come on, girls. Where is your pep and your spirit? Of course we know the weather has not been very favorable for ball games and our hot doggies have not been selling very well either. But that is all the more reason why we should show our pep and our spirit and our coöperation.

It will not be long until we will give the annual banquet to the foot ball fellows and will entertain at the "kick-off" party. We must make these events a success.

Girls, line up and all boost for more school spirit and more interest in athletics in B. G. S. N. C.

Jerry: I like to hear that prof lecture on chemistry. He brings things home to me that I have never seen before.

The regular meeting of the Skol sorority was held the evening of November 10 at the home of Miss McCain. The pledge members were at this affair and a social evening was enjoyed.

At this affair the following alumni were welcomed: Esther Brown, Sylvania; Marie Pulskamp, Pemberville; Helen Rieder, Toledo; Helen Pearson, Toledo; Ruth Sweet, Delta; Ida Mae Switzer, Cygnet; Arlene Stannard, Bowling Green; Esther Russell, Port Clinton, and Dorothy Bates, Toledo.

Five Brothers Banquet

All good things, as the saying goes, must come to an end. So it proved with the 1925 Bee Gee Home-Coming.

Altho climate conditions dampened things considerably including the football game, it did not lack many bright spots which attracted those interested.

Home-Coming was probably unofficially closed about 2:30 Sunday a. m. at which time a certain group of young men disbanded with a spirit of good will and strong intentions of meeting again one year from that time.

This group commonly known about the campus as Five Brothers began to assemble at about midnight at the Home Restaurant where later they were served a grand meal which first appeared and second disappeared. Minds then turned from the individual attentions to attention to Old Skull, J. Ladd, who presented those who were to address the group. Talks were then given by Faculty Advisor Powell, Brother Munc Bachman, and Neophyte Olds. Others were then called on at the whim of the crowd and responded by speaking on whatever subject came to his mind or was chosen for him. Much inside dope was given present brothers and neophytes by the alumni brothers, all of which is bound to be useful some time in the near or distant future. That of Brother Goebel, now of Columbus was certainly practical altho well worn advise.

The meeting closed by the Brother requesting the neophytes to give the official yell of the organization. After the neophytes had done their best the Brothers proceeded to show the afore said neophytes how it should be done.

The Brothers then disbanded going back to their respective homes with best wishes to all.

Y. W. C. A.

The work of the Y. W. C. A. is progressing very nicely and its organization promises to be a success.

The meeting on Thursday, October 22 was opened by a short song service and devotionals led by Mary Freeman. A reading by Merle Gray and a song by a trio were much enjoyed. The remainder of the evening was taken up by discussing and voting on the constitution, which had previously been drawn up by the constitutional committee. Since then the constitution has been approved by Pres. Williams. A nominating committee has been appointed and permanent officers will be installed in the near future.

A very interesting session was held November 12. The devotionals were led by Edith Cain and a reading was given by Dorothy Rosendale. The topic for the evening was "Men: What We Think of Them." Pearl Gray was discussion leader. Talks were given by Esther March, Estella Daniels, Marie Dock and Eloise Leathers. The whole discussion was one of great interest to all.

Any girls who have not availed themselves of the opportunity to attend these meetings should do so. They will find a hearty welcome and interesting and worth while meetings.

Attention

All enterprising and ambitious papers now-a-days, have Heart and Home columns, so why not the Bee Gee News? We know that there are many questions (foolish and otherwise) for which students are earnestly seeking answers. So now's your chance. Just write down those sticklers, address them to Aunt Kate and drop them into the Bee Gee News Box. She's a kindly old soul (you know the lyne-square glasses knittin' 'n everything) who although she has had many a sad experience has not become embittered and so will give you the best of advice. So bring on your questions.

Jokes

Another absent-minded man is the salesman who went home and tried to sell his wife a box of cigars for her husband.

“Well” said the senior as he grasped his diploma,” the same old skin game.”

“A man I could cultivate” said the doctor looking at his dirtiest patient.

Benny: “I found a splinter of wood in my soup to-day.”

Marie: “What did you do with it?”

Benny: “Oh! I ate it with the rest of my board.”

Son (innocently): “Muther, how did dad bekum a professor at college?”

Mrs. Prof.: “So you’r begun to wonder too; hav yu?”

Instructor: “What is the main use of burlap?”

Student: “To make grass grow where it won’t.”

May Leontine: “Don’t you just adore Kipling?”

Stanley P.: “I don’t know, how do you kipple?”

Donna (while practice teaching): “Do you want to hear a fairy tale?”

Training School Youngster: “Say, you can’t kid me. I guess that I know fairies ain’t got any tails.”

Hayden: “Gee, I’ve written home for money for the “Key” so often that I’m going to have to tell them that it comes out in volumes.”

Onnolee (rushing home): “Gee! I sure am overworked.”

Thelma: “What are you doing now?”

Onnolee: “Oh, this and that.”

T.: “When?”

O.: “Now and then.”

T.: “Where?”

O.: “Here an there?”

T.: “Well, you sure do need a vacation.”

“Mother, what is that tramp doing with that piece of wrapping paper?”

“Hush, darling, that is a college graduate with his diploma.”

Peanuts: “Can you help me with this trig problem?”

Prof.: “I would, but I don’t think it would be right.”

Scandal Column

We hear that Onnolee has taken quite a load off her mind. Packer’s Tar Soap every two or three months does the trick.

Ask Vaughn Gill what’s the matter with the “Knockin Down.”

Just what should we think when a history shark like Thelma Ritchie asks if November 3rd is Armistice Day?

Anthony: Ho, Cæsar, there is a man with a noble nerve.

Cæsar: Ay, a wonderful Gaul.
